

Falanghina Favella - Danimi

Tasting Notes

Straw yellow, fresh and fruity with citrus, pineapple and white flower notes and lively acidity balanced by the structure of the wine.

Falanghina \fah lahn GHEE nah\

An ancient varietal grown almost exclusively in the Campania region, where the vines thrive in the porous volcanic soils around Mount Vesuvius and the warm Mediterranean climate. Falanghina wines are well structured, full-bodied and memorable thanks to the distinct and aromatic nose resembling orange peel and fresh kumquats. The name for the wine appears to derive from the Latin falangae, or stakes for supporting the grapes in a vineyard.
